Office of the Howard Association of New Orleans,

FEBRUARY 29TH, 1868.

The Howard Association presents to the public the following report of its operations during the Epidemic of 1867.

In the month of June last the surviving members of the Association renewed their charter, which had expired, and reorganized in anticipation of an epidemic

On the 2d of September the yellow fever, cases of which for some weeks had gradually increased, was assumed and recognized by the Association to be epidemic, and preparations for active duty were immediately made.

At that time there was not a dollar in the treasury. We announced this fact to our citizens, and gave notice of our readiness to take care of the sick. The statement, communicated also to friends abroad, met with immediate response—contributions poured into our treasury. Never perhaps, in the history of our Association, were funds so cordially and promptly supplied. Distant cities, named below, rapidly furnished large amounts of money. Even by telegraphic orders, through well known and influential commercial houses, were many thousands of dollars placed at our disposal. The charity of the friends of suffering humanity sped to the relief of the sick of our city with lightning velocity!

The public will recognize amongst those abroad who were so active in soliciting for the relief of our Association, the names of several who in former years resided amongst us, and were identified with our city in the days of its prosperity. It was indeed gratifying to find them coming forward with so much alacrity to our aid in a season of adversity and sorrow.

The total amount of contributions was... $108,866 49

The total amount expended was..... 78,320 66

Showing balance on hand..... $30,545 83

Of this amount $25,000 are deposited in a responsible banking house, subject to call, and bearing interest at 6 per cent. per annum.

It is proper to mention here, that the reasons for the comparatively small amount received from the citizens of New Orleans, were: the extraordinary liberality of friends abroad, and the dispatch with which it was manifested—our resources at home were reserved for the possible long continuance of the epidemic.

Upon the first decline of the epidemic, our distant friends were telegraphed that we had funds sufficient for all probable necessities, and they were requested to discontinue collections.

The statistical and tabular statements, to be found in another part of this report, will show the number and nationality of the persons assisted; the complete list of contributors and amounts contributed, arranged according to the localities whence the funds came; and with the Treasurer's account, a full record of expenditures.

The number of yellow fever cases under our charge
was.....	4,192
Of which died.....	340
Recovered.....	3,852

In addition to the number of patients, there were relieved 6197 persons in families where sickness or extreme destitution prevailed. Thus, it will be perceived, that the total number of cases attended by our Association, was 10,389.

These statements include returns from Jefferson City, Carrollton, Algiers and Gretna, in which places, at the solicitation of the citizens thereof, we attended the sick, having the valuable assistance of the Rev. B. Wayne, Mr. L. N. Lane and Mr. E. C. Kelley in Jefferson City, and Mr. W. S. Mount in Carrollton.

Aid was also sent to various places beyond the city, money physicians, nurses, medicines, etc., as appears in account of expenditures.

In the recital of our work, mention should to be made of incidental benefits, which happily the Association was able to render—we employed many poor persons as nurses at good wages, in the season of poverty and distress incidental to an epidemic, and had many capable nurses at command whom we recommended to families needing their services. Many applications were made to us for nurses, by parties who could afford to employ them; and thus we endeavored to honor the confidence reposed in our judgment.

The disease was declared “no longer epidemic,” about the 29th of November, but the Association was not able to bring its labors to a close before about the 15th of December.

The number of deaths was about 8 per cent. of the cases treated.

This result compared with the percentage of deaths in the epidemic of 1858—22 per cent.—shows, either that the disease was of a milder type this year, or that it was more skilfully managed.

This report would not be complete were it fail to mention the alacrity with which physicians at the commencement of our labors proffered their services, or to neglect making a hearty recognition of their zeal and fidelity in all cases of their attendance upon our patients.

We have also found ready co-adjutors in the clergy of all denominations, who remained during the epidemic. Their separate sphere of duty, it is true, was a spiritual one, but it moved too in another sphere of ministration—a service of nursing and watching, by night and by day, the sick, the dying, and the distressed.

The Association also received valuable aid from the members of the Young Men’s Relief Association of this city.

Ample food for reflection may be found in the statistics given of our work. The citizens of New Orleans have passed through an epidemic which, while it was not marked by the fatality known in former years, was yet peculiarly severe, by the universality of its prevalence—by its long continuance through the Autumn, and by its extraordinary number of victims amongst the young. Greater anxiety probably was never felt in former epidemics, even in those of '53 and '58, from the fact, that so many families, were never before afflicted with the fever at the same time, as in our late epidemic.

We cannot close this part of our report without pointing the reader to the names and the figures, which designate the source and the amount of the means which have enabled us to perform our duty. Amid all the wrath and folly of men above the din of fierce political controversy, was heard the voice of benevolence and mercy, "Twice blessed—blessing him that gives, and him that receives." Benefactions, cheerfully made and gratefully acknowledged, are strong bonds of friendship between individuals. Equally so should the ministration by distant communities of succor to our "crowded city" when wailing the "stroke of the pestilence," and our thankful reception and enjoyment of that succor in our day of calamity, become the welded links of a lasting brotherhood.

The Association is particularly indebted to the following named, who acted in their respective cities as committees for collecting and forwarding donations :

Messrs. Spofford, Tilleston & Co.; B. B. Cromwell & Co.; Jos. H. Marks; Wm. P. Converse; Mathew, Morgan & Son; Chas. Morgan; Demas, Barnes & Co.; Peet, Williamson & Bolling; Livingston, Fox & Co., and Dr. E. Harris, in New York; Geo. W. S. James, in Philadelphia; Jno. C. Butler, Esq., in Cincinnati; Capt. W. C. Hite, in Louisville; Chas. Parsons, Esq., in St. Louis; Southern Relief Association, in Baltimore; also to Messrs. A. D. Grieff, J. L. Adams, C. H. Zimmerman, H. G. Darcy, Edward Page and J. A. Lum, citizens of New Orleans, who were active in making collections in New York, Boston and New Haven, where they were visiting.
